SUNS REVIEW - PROSPECTUS

COACH JOHN MAC LEOD: Before last season began, we committed to a rebuilding program. As part of that process we went with a running game offense that turned out to be not ready for "prime-time" and that was one of the big reasons we started the year 0-9. That start made the entire season a slow uphill climb. Injuries were another factor for the second year in a row. They destroyed our continuity and any hope for consistency.

We felt we had a great draft in June and many of these rookies are not only going to make our team, they are going to get significant playing time. Although our youngsters will have to come through an adjustment period and there will be some inconsistency, we're counting on veterans like Walter Davis, Alvan Adams, Larry Nance and Jay Humphries to be stabilizing factors. We're building for the future, but there is nothing like success now to build confidence.

1985-86 RECAP: The Suns got off to the worst start in the history of the franchise in 1985-86 (0-9) and that led to their second straight sub-.500 season (32-50), breaking a streak of eight straight years in the playoffs. Walter Davis led the club in scoring (21.8), which was 14th in the NBA scoring race. Larry Nance topped the club in rebounding (8.5) and was third best in the league in Field Goal Percentage (.581). Injuries claimed 232 player/games from the Suns. Phoenix ranked #18 in rebounds and #21 in free throw shooting. Although they were fourth best in the NBA in field goal percentage last year, they took fewer shots than any other team in the league. The Suns also led the league in the dubious statistical category of turnovers.

1986-87 OUTLOOK: The Suns continue to go with youth, blending in veterans Davis, Nance, Humphries, Edwards and Adams. Newcomer William Bedford, a seven-footer from Memphis State and the number six pick in the NBA College Draft, is expected to get plenty of playing time. Bedford should help the Suns defensive strength down the middle, but Phoenix must also improve its rebounding at both ends of the court, cut down on turnovers and do a better job of running its offense in order to rise in the standings from last year's fourth place finish in the Pacific Division.

The keys to the Suns season will be injuries, or lack thereof, and how quickly the rookies can make meaningful contributions.

JERRY COLANGELO

Vice President and General Manager

COLLEGE: University of Illinois '62

DEGREE: B.A. Physical Education

HIGH SCHOOL: Bloom Township H.S., Chicago Heights, Illinois

SPORTS MANAGEMENT CAPSULE: Colangelo is now in his nineteenth year as General Manager of the Suns, giving him the longest tenancy of any active GM in the NBA. In a 1983 reorganization of ownership, Colangelo added the title of Vice President. His current contract with the organization runs through 1992.

On two occasions, Colangelo has stepped in to assume the Suns coaching reins in addition to his front office duties. During the 1969-70 season he replaced Johnny Kerr at midseason and guided the club to a playoff appearance in only their second year of existence. In 1972-73 Colangelo fired Butch van Breda Kolff after seven games and then went 35-40 the rest of the season, as Phoenix finished with a 38-44 mark. Overall, Colangelo has a 59-60 record as a pro coach.

Colangelo began his sports management career as the Head Scout and Director of Merchandising for the Chicago Bulls when they entered the NBA in 1966, and later became Executive Assistant to Dick Klein, President and General Manager of the Bulls. When he took the Suns helm on March 1, 1968, Jerry was only 28 years of age, then the youngest general manager in professional sports. Jerry now serves on several advisory organizations for the NBA, including the Executive Committee for the league's Competition and Rules Committee. In 1982 he was elected to Board of Trustees of Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass.

Colangelo was named NBA Executive of the Year by "The Sporting News" following the 1975-76 season and again following the 1980-81 season.

COLLEGE CAPSULE: First enrolled at Kansas, where Wilt Chamberlain was expected to lead the Jayhawks to the national title. When Chamberlain decided to forgo his senior season to join the Harlem Globetrotters, Colangelo transferred to the University of Illinois, where he earned All-Big Ten honors, averaging 15 points per game. Captained the freshman team at Kansas and captained Illinois as a senior. Also played two years of baseball at Illinois. Named to Illinois Basketball Hall of Fame.

HIGH SCHOOL CAPSULE: Played for Bloom Township High in Chicago Heights, Illinois, averaging 15 points per game. Hit a high of 35 points to set a school record in 1957. With Colangelo at guard the team went 22-6 and 27-2 for a 48-8 overall record and two appearances in the Illinois State Championship Tournament. A left-hander, he was also the top pitcher on the school baseball team that also featured Jim Bouton, who later played for the NY Yankees. Upon graduation Jerry had 66 scholarship offers for college basketball and seven offers for pro baseball contracts. Earned All-State recognition in basketball as a senior.

PERSONAL CAPSULE: Since his arrival in the Valley of the Sun in 1968, Colangelo has been deeply involved with the Phoenix community. A former president of the Valley Big Brothers, he is a life member of the Phoenix Thunderbirds, an organization dedicated to the promotion of Phoenix through sports.

For his community service work, Colangelo has been honored by the Phoenix Jaycees, the Boys Clubs of Phoenix, the City of Phoenix, the Boy Scouts and dozens of other organizations. The Phoenix Press Box Association named Colangelo as the "Sports Personality of the Year" in 1976.

Colangelo is a member of the Board of Directors for Sam Cor (Samaritan Health Services) as well as Liberty Bank in Glendale, AZ. He is on the steering committee for the Christian Businessmen's Organization of Phoenix and is the Chairman of the Board for the Starr Leadership Foundation, a local organization which addresses community social problems relating to young people and to the poor. In addition, Colangelo is a Director and is one of the principals in JDM Properties Incorporated, a real estate development company.

Colangelo was born 11/20/39 in the old Italian neighborhood called "Hungry Hill" in Chicago Heights, Illinois. Jerry Colangelo and his wife Joan have four children: Kathy (25), Kristen (23), Bryan (21), and Mandie Brooke (8).

JOHN MacLEOD

Head Coach

COLLEGE: Bellarmine (Kentucky) '59
DEGREE: B.A., M.A. Physical Education and History from Indiana State
HIGH SCHOOL: Providence H.S., Clarkdale, Indiana

PRO COACHING CAPSULE: Signed as the fifth Head Coach of the Suns on March 30, 1973. Now in his 14th season as the Suns head man. Has strong defensive philosophy and a disciplined approach to the game. His 13 completed years with Phoenix is the 3rd longest coaching reign in NBA history behind Red Auerbach (16) and Al Attles (14). A 1980-81 Newspaper Enterprise Association survey of N.B.A. coaches named MacLeod "Best Coach." A 1979 Sport magazine poll rated MacLeod the league's number two coach. Guided the Suns to a club record 57 wins in 1980-81. His Suns teams have been in post season play for nine of the last 11 seasons. Currently, his years with the Suns give him the longest tenure with the same team of any active N.B.A. coach. His 37 career playoff wins put him in a sixth place among all active NBA coaches. Coached the West squad at the 1981 NBA All-Star at Cleveland. Went over the 500 win plateau during the 1984-85 season. President of the NBA Coaches Assn.

COLLEGE COACHING CAPSULE: Went to Oklahoma as freshman coach in 1966 and forged a 7-1 mark, the best frosh record in the school's history, and succeeded Bob Stevens as head coach the following year. Oklahoma cage fortunes were at a low ebb, but MacLeod turned the program around going 13-13, 7-19, 19-9, 19-8, 14-12 and 18-8 during his six seasons there. Under MacLeod the Sooners made two trips to the National Invitation Tournament and compiled a 90-69 overall record. Three of MacLeod's former Oklahoma players enjoyed long careers in the NBA: Clifford Ray, Alvan Adams and Gar Heard.

HIGH SCHOOL COACHING CAPSULE: In 1963-64 at Smithville High School in Indiana, a rural community about eight miles southeast of Bloomington, MacLeod was Athletic Director as well as coach in basketball, baseball and cross country. Basketball was taken seriously in Smithville. The school's enrollment was 135 and the gym's capacity was 3,800! An assistant at Louisville DeSales High and at Indianapolis Cathedral, MacLeod's only job as a prep head coach was at Smithville, where he was 16-24 over two seasons.

ATHLETIC BACKGROUND: MacLeod won seven high school letters (three each in basketball and football, and another in cross-country) at Providence High School in Clarksdale, Indiana. Established a Bellarmine College record by earning 10 varsity monograms. In college basketball MacLeod was a good passer and defensive player, but a non-starter. At one time MacLeod was a sparring partner for boxer Jimmy Ellis. Was voted Most Outstanding Player in a Louisville amateur baseball league in 1961, and was a left-handed outfielder with a powerful arm and great potential, but damaged his arm throwing baseballs at milk bottles at an Altoona, Pa. amusement park. Jogs daily to keep in condition. Named Arizona Coach of the Year in 1979 by the Phoenix Press Box Association.

PERSONAL CAPSULE: Married to the former Carol McGroder, former TV actress, who is now an active supporter of Phoenix theatre groups. MacLeod was born 10/3/37 in New Albany, Indiana. MacLeod annually sponsors a golf tournament in Phoenix to benefit the Foundation for the Blind, and serves as Head Coach of the Arizona Special Olympics. He is spokesman for the Arizona Asthma Foundation. Runs the John MacLeod Basketball School in Prescott, Arizona during the summer months. The MacLeods have two children, Kathleen Ann (11) and Matthew Patrick (9).

AL BIANCHI
Assistant Coach

COLLEGE: Bowling Green, Ohio '54

DEGREE: B.A. Education-History

HIGH SCHOOL: Long Island City H.S., Queens, N.Y.

PRO COACHING CAPSULE: Signed by the Suns as Assistant Coach on January 22, 1976. Bianchi is now in his 12th Suns season. His 11 years as a Suns asst. coach is third longest streak in recent NBA history behind Jack McMahon (14) and Bernie Bickerstaff (12). Bianchi was head coach of the Washington Capitols - Virginia Squires franchise of the ABA for seven years (1969 through 1976) and prior to that was head man for the expansion Seattle SuperSonics during the 1967-68 and 1968-69 seasons. Al's pro head coaching figures are 283-392 (.419) for regular season and 18-22 (.450) in ABA playoffs. Al began his pro coaching career as assistant to John Kerr with the expansion Chicago Bulls in 1966.

PRO PLAYING RECORD: Bianchi was a second round draft pick of the Minneapolis Lakers in 1954, but did not report because of a two-year hitch in the Army Medical Corps, stationed in San Antonio, Texas. Played on the All-Army Team for two years and earned a shot at the Olympic Trials in Kansas City in 1956. When he finally reported to the Lakers he was released after a week. Bianchi caught on with the Syracuse Nationals initiating a 10 year career with that franchise. Bianchi played in 687 regular season NBA games averaging 8.1 points per game. In playoff action he averaged 8.0 points per game, and was in post season action in each of his 10 NBA seasons.

COLLEGE PLAYING CAPSULE: Was Honorable Mention All-America, All-Ohio and All-Mid American Conference at Bowling Green under Coach Harold Anderson. The "Falcons" earned a trip to the 1954 N.I.T. in New York. Bianchi averaged 25 points per game and was the nation's ninth leading scorer that season.

HIGH SCHOOL CAPSULE: Began playing organized basketball as a junior at Long Island City High School. Averaged 20 points per game as a senior winning All-P.S.A.L. honors.

PERSONAL CAPSULE: Born 3/26/32 in Long Island City, N.Y. Married with six children. Lives in north central Phoenix with wife, Bonnie, and son, Luc (16). One of the principals of Bianchi International Travel, Phoenix.

JOHN WETZEL
Assistant Coach

COLLEGE: Virginia Tech '66

DEGREE: Liberal Arts and Sciences

HIGH SCHOOL: Wilson Memorial H.S., Fishersville, Virginia

PRO COACHING CAPUSLE: On June 19, 1979, John Wetzel joined the Suns staff as Assistant Coach. The seven years that the MacLeod-Bianchi-Wetzel coaching team has been together is the longest current streak in the league. Wetzel's first coaching experience came in the 1978-79 season when he piloted the Washington Lumberjacks of the Western Basketball Association to a 29-19 record, the second best record in the seven-team league.

The Suns nearly lost Wetzel to the Cleveland Cavaliers this summer. He was a finalist for the head coaching job eventually awarded to Lenny Wilkens.

PRO PLAYING RECORD: Wetzel was an eighth round selection of the Lakers in the 1966 College Draft but did not play in the 1966-67 season because of a broken wrist. Following his rookie season in L.A. he was selected by the Suns in the 1968 Expansion Draft. Before he could report to the Suns however, Wetzel spent two years in the military service. He played two years with the Suns but was waived prior to the 1972-73 season and subsequently was signed at mid-season by the Atlanta Hawks where he played for three seasons. Before the 1975-76 season began, the Hawks put Wetzel on waivers and he was picked up by Phoenix for that "Sunderella" season. *Neutral Court Designation Eliminated By NBA

A CAPSULE HISTORY OF THE SUNS

On January 22, 1968, the Board of Governors of the National Basketball Association awarded a franchise to the City of Phoenix, Arizona. The new team's most vital leadership came from owners Richard Bloch of Los Angeles along with Donald Pitt and Donald Diamond of Tucson. They brought together a group of investors that included celebrities Henry Mancini, Tony Curtis, Ed Ames, Andy Williams and Bobby Gentry.

Jerry Colangelo, a former University of Illinois basketball star who was Executive Assistant to the President of the Chicago Bulls, was selected as the new club's General Manager. He, in turn named one-time NBA Coach of the Year with the Bulls, Johnny Kerr, as head coach of the fledgling team.

The name "Suns" was selected through a contest sponsored by The Arizona Republic newspaper. More than 28,000 entries were submitted, suggesting titles ranging from "Gila Monsters" to "Roughriders." Since there were several entries with the name "Suns," a drawing was held and Mrs. Selinda King of Phoenix went down in the record books as the person who gave the Phoenix franchise its name.

The Suns and the Milwaukee Bucks entered the NBA for the 1968-69 season and both clubs were stocked through the May 6, 1968 Expansion Draft. Colangelo's first pick was Dick Van Arsdale, who he selected from the unprotected list of the New York Knicks. Van Arsdale scored the very first Suns field goal on the type of driving layup that became his trademark. He would go on to play nine years in a Phoenix uniform and perhaps more than any other player, help establish the character and identity of the franchise.

Other Expansion Draft picks who made contributions in the early years of the franchise included Gail Goodrich, Dick Snyder, Neil Johnson, Dave Lattin, Stan McKenzie, McCoy McLemore, John Wetzel and George Wilson.

The first Suns selection in the June 4, 1968 College Draft was Gary Gregor of South Carolina, the eighth overall pick in the draft. After making the All-Rookie team that first season, Gregor was traded to the Hawks for Paul Silas.

In their first year the Suns went a dismal 16-66, but they were buoyed by the hope that they might land the nation's top collegiate player Lew Alcindor (now Kareem Abdul-Jabbar) in the upcoming NBA Draft. In the coin flip between the Eastern and Western Conference teams with the poorest records (Milwaukee and Phoenix) the Suns had the call and based on another Arizona Republic contest, called "heads." The coin came up "tails," Milwaukee got Alcindor and two years later captured the NBA Championship. Success for the Suns, it appeared, would have to be earned every inch of the way.

Success did come more quickly for Phoenix than skeptics thought, when the Suns, behind the spectacular play of American Basketball Association refugee, Connie Hawkins, made the playoffs in only their second year of existence. The Suns battled the powerful Los Angeles Lakers to the seven game limit before they were eliminated, but the Phoenix franchise had definitely arrived.

Hawkins, who had been banned from NBA play because of implications of association with gamblers during his college days at Iowa, spent seven seasons playing for the Harlem Globetrotters and in the American Basketball Association before he pried open the door to the NBA with a lawsuit. The league decided that since the Bucks already had Alcindor in hand, Hawkins should go to the one of next two clubs with the poorest record. Many people believe that Hawkins was awarded to the Suns as a form of compensation for losing the flip for Alcindor, when in actuality, the Suns had to win a draw with the SuperSonics to lay claim to the spectacular "Hawk."

Halfway through the second season, Colangelo fired Kerr and took over the club himself as an interim coach. After the playoffs, Colangelo hired Cotton Fitzsimmons, a college coach with no professional basketball experience. Fitzsimmons led the club to two solid 48 and 49 win seasons. In their respective years these were the fourth and sixth best records in the entire NBA, but the Suns did not make the playoffs because of the divisional alignment at that time. Fitzsimmons left abruptly for Atlanta and Colangelo hired Butch Van Breda Kolff, who lasted seven games into the 1972-73 season before Colangelo fired him and took over the coaching duties again. This time Colangelo couldn't coax the Suns into the playoffs and at the end of the season, he hired another college coach to run the club, Oklahoma's John MacLeod.

After two seasons under MacLeod, things brightened considerably when the 1975-76 club, headed by Rookie of the Year Alvan Adams and high-scoring Paul Westphal, parlayed a 42-40 regular season record and a "wild card" berth in the playoffs, into a Western Conference Championship and a trip to the NBA Finals against the Boston Celtics. The fifth game of that championship series, a triple overtime affair that the Celtics won 128-126, has modestly been called "the greatest basketball game ever played." The Celtics beat back the challenge of the upstart Suns, but Phoenix demonstrated that this expansion team had come a long way in just eight seasons.

MacLeod, now in his 14th year in Phoenix, has gone on to enjoy the longest tenure of any active NBA coach. The Suns franchise has been a model of success for other expansion teams to follow. Their best regular season mark came in 1980-81 (57-25), while their biggest year of attendance came in 1984-85 when the Suns averaged 12,035 fans per game at the Arizona Veteran's Memorial Coliseum. The Suns have been in the playoffs in nine of the last 11 seasons.

YEAR BY YEAR WITH THE SUNS

1968-69 — On January 22, 1968 the N.B.A. Board of Governors granted a franchise to the city of Phoenix. On April 25, 1968, the name "SUNS" was selected in a contest sponsored by The Arizona Republic. The winning entry was submitted by Mrs. Selinda King of Phoenix. Suns suffered through their first season of existence with a 16-66 record. Gail Goodrich led in scoring with 1,931 points and a 23.8 average. Dick Van Arsdale averaged 21.0. Johnny Kerr was the coach. Goodrich and Van Arsdale each appeared in the NBA All-Star game at Baltimore. (Record: 16-66)

1969-70 — Connie Hawkins joined the scene from the ABA and led the Suns in scoring with a 24.6 average, earning a starting berth in the All-Star Game and gaining first team All-Pro honors. Van Arsdale was also named to the All-Star team in January. Midway through the season, Johnny Kerr stepped down as coach and general manager Jerry Colangelo took over. Colangelo guided the club into the playoffs and extended Los Angeles to seven games before being eliminated. (Record: 39-43)

1970-71 — Under new coach Cotton Fitzsimmons, Phoenix posted the fourth best record in the NBA, but failed to make the playoffs, finishing third behind Milwaukee and Chicago. Van Arsdale led the club in scoring with a 21.9 average and Paul Silas led in rebounding for the second straight season. Van Arsdale and Hawkins were again named to the All-Star team. (Record: 48-34)

1971-72 — Suns posted a club record 49-33 won-lost mark but failed to make the playoffs, finishing behind Milwaukee and Chicago in the Midwest Division. Suns record was sixth best in the NBA. Connie Hawkins led club in scoring with 21.0 average and Paul Silas led in rebounding and assists. Hawkins and Silas were named to the West team for the All-Star Game. Fitzsimmons was the coach. (Record: 49-33)

1972-73 — Suns fell off to a 38-44 mark and finished third in the Pacific Division. Charlie Scott led the club in scoring with a record 25.3 average and along with Connie Hawkins was named to the Western Conference All-Star Team. Seven games into the season, Bill van Breda Kolff was fired as coach and Jerry Colangelo assumed the duties for the remainder of the season. (Record: 38-44)

1973-74 — John MacLeod took the Suns coaching reins from Colangelo. Early in the season Connie Hawkins was traded to Los Angeles for Keith Erickson, who by season's end was named the Suns Most Outstanding Player. Charlie Scott led the club in scoring average with 25.4 points per game but missed the final 29 games with a broken arm. The Suns finished fourth in the Pacific Division with a 30-52 mark. Van Arsdale led the club in point production with 1389 and shooting percentage (.500) and Scott was the lone Suns All-Star representative. (Record: 30-52)

1974-75 — The season was preceded by one of the largest transactions in Suns history with center Neal Walk and a second-round draft pick going to New Orleans in exchange for Curtis Perry, Dennis Awtrey, Nate Hawthorne and a first-round pick in 1976. Perry had his best season as a pro averaging 12 points and 12 rebounds per game winning both the Suns' Most Outstanding and Most Popular Player Awards. In late February, the Suns had a shot in the NBA playoffs, but injuries to Van Arsdale and Erickson knocked them from contention. The Suns finished fourth in the Pacific Division with a 32-50 mark. Charlie Scott was the Suns only All-Star representative in the first NBA All-Star Game played in Phoenix. Scott finished the season as the club's leading scorer with 24.3 points per game. Perry was listed as the #10 rebounder in the NBA. (Record: 32-50)

1975-76 — The most exciting season in Suns history began with the Suns flying out of the gate with a 14-9 start, their best ever. A string of injuries and a puzzling mid-season slump had the Suns winning only 4 of their next 22 but after the All-Star break the Suns caught fire going 24-13 and storming into the playoffs against the Seattle SuperSonics. There were several reasons for the Suns turnaround: a Charlie Scott for Paul Westphal trade in the off-season, the drafting of Alvan Adams and Ricky Sobers, the acquisition of Al Bianchi as assistant coach and the mid-season trade that sent John Shumate to Buffalo and brought Garfield Heard to Phoenix. Phoenix eliminated the Sonics 4-2, then went on to upset the World Champion Golden State Warriors 4-3 and gain the NBA finals against the Boston Celtics. The Suns lost the first two games in Boston but came back to knot the series with a pair of victories in Phoenix. Game five will go down in basketball history as the most exciting game ever played. A triple overtime contest that eluded the Suns by a few precious seconds and cost them the World Championship. Boston won the series 4-2. Rookie Alvan Adams was named the NBA Rookie of the Year and became only the tenth first-year player to be named to the mid-season All-Star Game. General Manager Jerry Colangelo was named Executive of the Year by The Sporting News. (Record: 42-40)

1976-77 — Tom and Dick Van Arsdale were playing on the same team for the first time as pros. The Suns entered the year with the highest of expectations, then watched helplessly as injuries eventually claimed the entire starting front line. Forwards Gar Heard and Curtis Perry each missed nearly half the season and center Alvan Adams was injured in the fourth game of the season and didn't regain top form until February. The Suns had all players healthy and available for duty for only six games the entire season. The Suns finished 34-48, 5th in the Pacific Division. Paul Westphal led the club in scoring (21.2) for the second straight season and was named to the All-NBA Team for the first time in his career. Rookie Ron Lee was named to the NBA All Rookie Team and the Suns set a new home attendance mark, averaging over 10,000 fans per game. Westphal was voted to the starting unit of the West squad at the NBA All-Star Game in Milwaukee, scored 20 points and nearly captured the game's MVP award. As a team the Suns set a new assist record 2100 breaking the record they set in 1975-76. At the conclusion of the season, both Tom and Dick Van Arsdale retired from the NBA (Record: 34-48)

1977-78 — The Suns announced a block-buster trade just before the opening of the season. . . Ricky Sobers to Indiana for guard Don Buse, an All-Star and the NBA leader in both assists and steals. With Buse and rookie Walter Davis new faces in the starting line-up, the Suns bolted from the gate, were 19-11 by Christmas and 34-16 by the February All-Star break. They finished with a 49-33 record, fourth best in basketball, but were second in the Pacific Division behind the formidable Portland Trail Blazers. It was a record year for the Suns in many ways. A franchise record was set for attendance (11,464 per game) and on the court the Suns set NBA records for team steals in a season (1059) as well as tying the league mark for assists (2338). Walter Davis and Paul Westphal were among the league's top ten scorers with better than 20 points per game, both were named Second All-NBA and both participated for the West at the All-Star Game in Atlanta. Westphal as a starter. Davis went on to become the league's Rookie of the Year and Don Buse was named to the NBA All-Defensive team. Ron Lee led the league in steals with 2.7 thefts per game. At the All-Star break the Suns lost forward Curtis Perry with back problems and went the rest of the season with five rookies on the roster, more than any other NBA club. In the opening (Best of Three) round in the NBA Playoffs the Suns were surprised in two straight games by the Milwaukee Bucks. (Record: 49-33)

1978-79 — Phoenix opened the regular season with the same starting linup that began the 77-78 season. Walter Davis and Gar Heard at forward, Alvan Adams at center, with Paul Westphal and Don Buse at guard. The Suns won five of their first six games and were 24-14 by January 1. By the February 4 All-Star break the Suns were 32-20. For the third straight year, Westphal started in the All-Star classic, and Davis made it for the second year in a row. On January 12, 1979 the Suns obtained Len "Truck" Robinson from the New Orleans Jazz in exchange for guard Ron Lee, forward Marty Byrnes, first-round picks in 1979 and 1980 and undisclosed cash. Three days later the Suns signed guard Ted McClain as a free agent to complete their roster. On February 24, Robinson was hospitalized for 12 days a severe viral infection. Robinson missed 13 games while recovering from the ailment and the Suns went 9-4 during that time. With an emotional overtime win over Seattle at Phoenix on March 30, the Suns qualified for the NBA playoffs for the second year in a row and the fourth time in their 11 NBA seasons. The Suns won eight games in a row down the stretch before losing their last two games at San Diego and at Los Angeles to close the 1978-79 season 50-32. The Suns FG% of .512 set a club record and was second in the NBA to Los Angeles. The Suns also set a club record for assists with 2500. Phoenix led the NBA in steals however with 915, an average of 11.2 per game. Westphal was named First Team All League, Davis Second Team. Buse was named to the All Defensive squad. In the Playoffs the Suns got by Portland (2-1), thrashed Kansas City (4-1), but lost 3-4 to eventual World Champion Seattle in a hard-fought Western Conference Final. (Record: 50-32)

1979-80 — Phoenix opened the regular season on October 12 with a starting line-up of Walter Davis and Truck Robinson at forward, Alvan Adams at center, with guards Don Buse and Paul Westphal. The Suns were the only team in the NBA with five former All-Star game participants as starters. By New Year's Day Phoenix was 26-14 and 35-19 at the All-Star break. During December, the Suns hammered out a nine-game winning streak to tie an all-time club record. Jeff Cook was the starting center in eight of the nine games, as Alvan Adams sat out with a foot injury. On February 15, the Suns obtained 7-0 center Rich Kelley from the New Jersey Nets in exchange for a second-round Suns draft pick in 1983, a first-round pick in 1982 and cash. The Suns chased Seattle and Los Angeles for the Division lead for virtually the entire 82-game schedule, moving into a tie for the lead for just a short stretch in late November and early December. For the majority of the season though, the Suns were ensconced in third place in the Pacific. For the second season in a row Don Buse, Alvan Adams, Walter Davis and Paul Westphal all finished with over 300 Assists, the only time in NBA history that four players on the same team have accomplished this feat. Davis and Westphal played in the NBA All Star game in Washington and Westphal was named First Team, Davis Second Team on the post-season All-NBA Squad. In playoffs Suns defeated Kansas City 2-1, lost to Los Angeles 1-4. (Record: 55-27)

1980-81 — For the Phoenix Suns, the 1980-81 regular season began as a bold experiment and ended as an unqualified success. When the Suns opened the campaign in October, questions surounded newcomer Dennis Johnson, who had come to the Suns in the controversial deal that sent Paul Westphal to Seattle. There also were doubts about the Suns ability to adjust to the move of All-Star forward Walter Davis to the backcourt and to Jeff Cook moving into the starting line-up at forward. The Suns responded with their most successful season ever, finishing with a club record 57 wins against 25 losses, winning their first division title and clinching the best record in the Western Conference.

Phoenix opened the year with three straight wins before losing to the Lakers on October 17, the loss dropping the Suns out of first place for two days. It was the only time during the season that the Suns were not in first place, regaining the top spot to stay on October 20.

The Suns 36-5 home record tied their 1979-80 mark as the best in the club's history and their 21-20 record on the road was the first winning road record in the team's annals. The Suns did not lose more than two games in a row all season. They finished the season with a 16-9 record following the February 1 All-Star game.

The All-Star Game in Cleveland had a distinctive Phoenix flavor with John MacLeod and the Suns coaching staff at the helm of the West Squad. Walter Davis voted to a starting forward position by the fans and Dennis Johnson and Truck Robinson named to the team by a vote of Western Conference coaches. In the playoffs the Suns were surprised by a gritty Kansas City Kings club that took the Western Conference semi-finals 4-3. At season's end, Dennis Johnson was named to the All-NBA Team and was honored on the NBA's All-Defensive team. Suns General Manager Jerry Colangelo was named NBA Executive of the Year for the second time by The Sporting News. (Record: 57-25)

1981-82 — The Suns were dealt a crippling blow just days before the season opened, when guard Walter Davis suffered a fractured elbow in the club's final pre-season game. Kyle Macy joined Dennis Johnson, Alvan Adams, Len Robinson and Jeff Cook in the Suns opening night starting lineup. Seeking the right combinations and the proper chemistry, 1981-82 became a season of constant change and experimentation. Alvin Scott supplanted Cook in the starting lineup and later in the season Scott was supplanted by Alvan Adams, who shifted from his normal center position to allow Kelley into the starting lineup. Davis began his comeback in late December, but it became clear his elbow, still joined by surgical tension wires and screws, would keep him from reaching top form. He was used in a sixth man role most of the year.

With a month to go in the season, the Suns found themselves embroiled in a heated Western Conference playoff race. Phoenix, Golden State, Houston, San Antonio and Denver went up to the final weekend of the season before NBA tie-breaking procedures were utilized to finally settle qualification and home court advantage in the playoffs. The Suns finished the regular season with a 46-36 mark, good enough for third place in the NBA Pacific Division and a playoff berth. Phoenix opened post-season play by defeating Denver 2-1 in a hard-fought mini-series, winning the deciding game on the Nuggets' home court. In the Western Conference Semi-Finals, however, the Suns ran into a Los Angeles Lakers juggernaut and were swept by the Lakers (0-4). The Lakers went on to sweep San Antonio (4-0), then defeated Philadelphia 4-2 to win the NBA Championship. Dennis Johnson was named to the NBA All-Defensive team and was the lone Suns representative at the mid-season All-Star Game in New Jersey. (Record: 46-36)

1982-83 — Following a 4-0 sweep by the Championship-bound Los Angeles Lakers in the 1982 NBA Playoffs, the Suns were ready for some changes. They traded Len "Truck" Robinson to New York for power forward Maurice Lucas. They installed 6'10" second-year man Larry Nance at the "small" forward slot and welcomed back a healthy Walter Davis at guard. The only holdovers in the starting lineup from 1981-82 were center Alvan Adams and guard Dennis Johnson. During the first half of the season Phoenix drifted between second, third and fourth in the Pacific Division and at the All-Star break they were tied for second with a 30-22 record.

As the season progressed, so did Larry Nance. He finished the year by leading the Suns in field goal percentage (.550) and set a new franchise record for blocked shots in a season with 217.

In spite of their success, the Suns had a glaring weakness at back-up center, where they juggled Jeff Cook, Joel Kramer and Maurice Lucas. With starting center Alvan Adams undersized at 6'9", the Suns needed help down the middle. So, Suns General Manager Jerry Colangelo traded Jeff Cook, cash, a third round draft pick in 1983 and other considerations to Cleveland in exchange for 7'1" center James Edwards, who was coming back after early season knee surgery. Just as he was rounding into shape, Edwards sprained an ankle and was shelved for another month, but returned to see action in the Suns final nine games.

From the All-Star break the Suns won 23 of the 30 games and finished the season as the hottest team in the League, six straight. Phoenix won 12 of its final 13 games and in the process matched its best-ever season road record (21-20). The Suns' 53 wins in 1982-83 is the third-best mark in the history of the franchise. The Suns qualified for post-season play for the sixth straight year and the seventh time in eight seasons. The Suns were eliminated from the playoffs by the Denver Nuggets (2-1) in the opening round.

Walter Davis led the team in scoring (19.0), but it was defense that led the Suns' resurgence. Phoenix had the third-best mark in the NBA for Points Allowed (102.0) and were the best team in the League when it came to defending the field goal, holding their opponents to a .455 percentage from the field. (Record: 53-29)

1983-84 — At the beginning of the season, plans were to start 7'1" James Edwards at center, but a fractured knuckle on his shooting hand banished him to the injured list and rendered him ineffective for the season's first month. Plans were to bring new acquisition Rick Robey along as a back-up forward to Maurice Lucas and a back-up center to Edwards and Alvan Adams, but Robey suffered a groin pull and later underwent arthroscopic surgery on his right knee, seeing little playing time. Plans were to start Kyle Macy at the guard slot left open by the departure of Dennis Johnson and bring Paul Westphal off the bench to provide additional backcourt scoring, but Westphal suffered a succession of hamstring and knee injuries that landed him on the injured list for much of the season's first half and Macy was supplanted in the starting lineup by rookie Rod Foster until the final weeks of the regular season. Suns Coach John MacLeod was forced constantly to juggle his starting assignments, searching for a consistency that did not materialize until late in the season.

The Suns, normally known for their strong conditioning, good preparation and fast starts, proceeded to uncharacteristically stumble from the starting blocks. Through the season's first 18 games, the Suns won only five, the second-worst start in the club's history.

Walter Davis returned to the Western Conference All-Star squad and Larry Nance won the NBA Slam Dunk Championship at Denver.

The Suns struggled on the road. During January and February the Suns lost 14 straight games on foreign courts. Only their fine home court record (31-10) kept the Suns in the playoff race until the late stages of the season, when they put together six straight wins, their longest winning streak of the season, including their last two in a row on the road. During April, the Suns moved from the possibility of not making the playoffs into the sixth rated-position in the Western Conference. In light of the NBA's expanded playoff field for 1983-84, Phoenix would have qualified for post-season play even under the old format.

After their shaky 5-13 beginning, the Suns forged a solid 36-28 (.563) record, and pulled their overall record to .500 (41-41). Phoenix qualified for post-season play for the seventh straight year and the eighth time in nine seasons.

The Suns were saving their most remarkable performances for the playoffs. They defeated Portland in a hard-fought five-game opening round series, winning the fifth and deciding game on the Blazers' home court. They proceeded to upend Midwest Division Champion Utah in six games in the next round, highlighted by a remarkable 111-110 overtime win in game four at the Coliseum. The Suns then took on the Los Angeles Lakers in the Western Conference Finals. The Suns pushed the talented Lakers to six games, defeating them 135-127 in overtime in game three in Phoenix and staving off elimination with a 126-121 upset win in Los Angeles in a dogged performance in game five. The Suns were finally eliminated in game six, but only when their final shot didn't connect in a 99-97 nail-biter. (Record: 41-41)

1984-85 — The nucleus of the Suns team stayed intact and the addition of promising rookie performer Jay Humphries gave hope for the coming season.

The optimism proved ephemeral however, when the Suns leading scorer and five-time All-Star, Walter Davis, crashed to the Inglewood Forum floor with three torn ligaments in his left knee. The victim of a slick playing surface during the October 9 pre-season game, Davis would miss the first two-thirds of the season and would never regain full mobility during a courageous comeback attempt.

Regrettably, the Davis injury was only a harbinger of worse luck to come. Rick Robey would be out for the season with surgery on his right heel. Mike Sanders would miss almost three-quarters of the season with arthroscopic surgery on his left knee. Kyle Macy, who had never missed a game in four previous years in the NBA, was sidelined for 17 games with an assortment of foot and hip injuries. Larry Nance, who had missed only two games in three seasons, would miss 21 of the season's final 22 games with a groin injury. Maurice Lucas would miss 13 games with an assortment of ailments and center James Edwards would miss 12 games with a bruised right knee. In all, Suns would miss a total of 266 player/games due to injury or illness during the course of the 1984-85 season. Only Alvan Adams went "wire-to-wire," appearing in all 82 games without suffering an injury and he did it for the first time in his 10-year NBA career.

Suns Coach John MacLeod was forced to use 26 different starting lineups during the course of the season. Ironically, 1983-84's regular starting unit of Lucas, Nance, Edwards, Davis and Macy did not start a single game in 1984-85.

The Suns jumped out to a surprising 5-0 start, the best beginning in the history of the franchise. Combined with the six straight wins with which they finished at the end of the 1983-84 season, they set a new club record for consecutive wins (11). It was Larry Nance who assumed the leadership role with Davis gone, topping the club in scoring (20.0) and virtually every other statistical category. Nance was named the NBA's first Player of the Week for 1984-85 and would go on to make his first appearance in an NBA All-Star game.

Phoenix, with Nance playing some of his finest basketball of the season and Davis making a gallant comeback, pulled their record to .500 (25-25) by the February All-Star break. The injuries and juggled line-ups finally caught up with the Suns and they staggered to an 11-21 mark in the season's final 32 games.

The Suns ranked #2 in the NBA in assists (2335) dishing out over 2,000 for the 10th year in a row. The Suns 36-46 record marked the first time since the 1976-77 season (34-48) that they failed to reach the .500 mark. They qualified for the playoffs for the eighth straight year and for the ninth time in the last ten years, but they were knocked out 3-0 in the first round by the Lakers.

The Suns averaged 12,035 fans per game, setting a new attendance record for the franchise, breaking the old mark of 11,883 per game set during the 1981-82 campaign.

The Suns ended the regular season with "Suns Reunion '85," bringing back 24 former Suns players and coaches to participate in a weekend of Suns nostalgia, capped by an exhibition basketball game. (Record: 36-46)

1985-86 - What started out as a rebuilding project would evolve into one of the most controversial seasons in Suns history. In the weeks preceding the opener, the Suns confirmed their desire to go with youth and speed by trading veteran forward Maurice Lucas to the Lakers and allowing free agent guard Kyle Macy to sign with the Chicago Bulls. All-Star forward Larry Nance was a contract holdout through training camp and the pre-season before coming to terms one game into the regular season. Even as the curtain came up on 1985-86, the Suns old nemesis, injury, had already exacted a toll. Guards Rod Foster and Bernard Thomspson along with center Nick Vanos were on the shelf and it would get worse as only two Suns would be able to appear in all 82 games. Opening night's starting lineup consisted of Jay Humphires and Walter Davis at guard, Alvan Adams at center, with Mike Sanders and Charles Jones at the forward spots.

Phoenix got off to the worst start in franchise history, going 0-9. During that period, the Suns successfully negotiated for the services of Georgi Glouchkov, a strapping 6'8" center from the Bulgarian National Team, who became the first Eastern Bloc player to play in the NBA. At first, Glouchkov captured national media attention, as well as the affection of Phoenix fans, but communication difficulty, not to mention achilles tendinitis, would drastically curtail his playing time as the season wore on.

The biggest story of the year however, came December 12, when five-time NBA All-Star Walter Davis came forward asking for help with substance abuse problems involving alcohol and cocaine. Davis spent a month in a Southern California clinic before rejoining the team on January 10 and re-establishing his claim as the club's scoring leader. Both Davis and Alvan Adams passed the 12,000 point plateau for their NBA careers with Davis taking over the Suns all-time scoring lead. Davis led the team in scoring (21.8), while Nance became the club's top rebounder (8.5). For the first time in their history, the Suns did not place a player on the squad for the mid-season NBA All-Star game.

There was more controversy to come as the injury-battered Suns came limping down the homestretch of the season, with playoffs still a possibility. MacLeod went with his youngsters and although they picked up valuable playing time and enjoyed a modicum of success, the Suns were nevertheless accused by the newsmedia of trying for a spot in the NBA Draft Lottery instead of attempting to win late season games. The capper to the season came when reserve guard Rod Foster suffered a severe break of his left leg in a jeep accident north of Phoenix. The Suns signed Sedric Toney from the CBA for the final 10 games of the season. For the year, injuries hammered the Suns for a total of 232 player/games.

Suns attendance held its own for the season, with an average of 11,121 per game. The Suns could never recover from their 0-9 beginning and finished the year 32-50, failing to make the playoffs for the first time in nine seasons. (Record: 32-50)

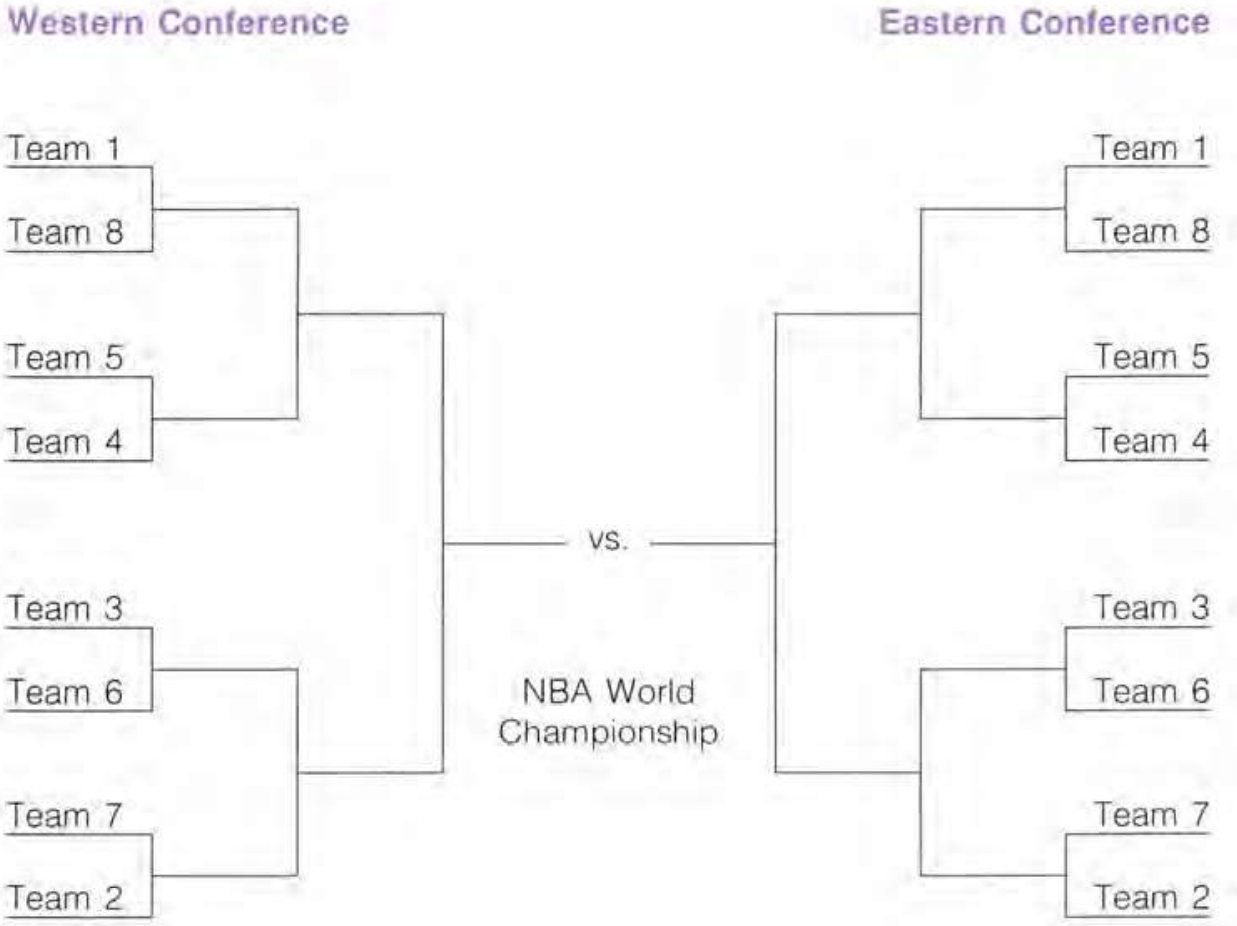
NBA PLAYOFF FORMAT

1. Sixteen teams qualify for the playoffs. There are eight teams from each conference, consisting of the two division champions and the six other teams in each conference with the best winning percentage during the regular season.

2. The first round of the playoffs is a best-of-five series, with all succeeding rounds, including the NBA World Championship Series, being best-of-seven. All teams participate in the first round.

Following are the playoff pairings:



Note: Team 1 in each conference is the division winner with the better record, Team 2 is the other division winner and Teams 3-8 are ranked according to their regular-season winning percentage.

NBA PLAYOFF ELIGIBILITY

Each team must submit a list of its players eligible to compete in playoff games by midnight of the final day of the regular season.

A player acquired through waivers after midnight, March 1, is not eligible to participate in playoff games following that season unless the team's playing roster is reduced to eight players due to injury or illness.

No team shall appear for a playoff game unless at least nine players are dressed for, eligible and able to participate in such game. Should a team roster be under nine, it must seek permission from the Commissioner to add a ninth player.

In the event that the application of the above rules pertaining to playing rosters and replacement of players in any particular case causes extreme hardship, the Commissioner, upon application by the team claiming hardship, has the power to permit changes and rule on injuries.

There is no Injured List for the playoffs. Rather, each playoff team must designate the 12 players eligible for the playoffs from all of its regular season lists (Active, Injured, Suspended). A player who is either on the Injured or Active Lists at the end of the regular season, but who is not designated for playoff eligibility, need not be waived. The ineligible player remains on the appropriate regular season list through the playoffs.

NBA PLAYOFF FORMAT EXPLAINED

A total of 16 teams will qualify for the 1987 NBA Playoffs, the four division winners and the next six teams in each conference according to their won-lost record, regardless of division. The First Round is best-of-5 (2-2-1), each succeeding round, including the NBA World Championship Series, is best-of-7.

In every series the home-court advantage in the extra game goes to the team with the better record during the regular season, regardless of its standing in the division race. Thus, if a division winner plays a second-place team from another division that had a better record, the second-place team would get the home-court advantage.

In determining the playoff matchups, the eight qualifiers in each conference must first be ranked. The division winner with the better record becomes Team 1, other other division winner becomes Team 2 and the remaining 6 qualifiers are ranked Teams 3 through 8 according to their records. The playoff pairings for the First Round are Team 1 vs 8, 2 vs 7, 3 vs 6, and 4 vs 5 in each conference. In the Conference Semifinals, the winner of pairing 1-8 plays the winner of pairing 4-5 and the winner of pairing 2-3 plays the winner of pairing 3-6.

The World Championship Series will be played on a 2-3-2 basis, the team with the better regular-season record getting the home-court advantage for the first two and last two games. Other best-of-7 series are 2-2-1-1-1.

MEDIA INFORMATION

CREDENTIALS

Courtside seating at the Coliseum Press Table and in the upper level Press Box is restricted to accredited working media representatives. Guests are not allowed. Non-working media will be seated in reserved seat areas, on a space available basis. Local media members who cover the Suns on a regular basis have already been issued press table and dressing room credentials for the season.

"Working" media people are defined as those who are assigned by their station or publication to file a report on the game.

Requests for individual game credentials should be directed to Tom Ambrose, Public Relations Director (602-266-5753), at least two days prior to the particular game.

Please wear your credentials in plain view at all times, this will allow you to move freely about the Coliseum without security problems or delays.

PRESS GATE

The press entrance is located on the east side, lower level of the Coliseum. Only media members who hold current Phoenix Suns or N.B.A. Press Credentials will be admitted through this entrance.

PRESS PARKING

Members of the media must use the Palm Lane Gate and display their Coliseum Press Parking Pass on the windshields of their vehicle. Media attending games in a non-working capacity are permitted to use the Palm Lane Entrance but they are asked to please park in either the North or South lots, not in the press parking areas. Please follow the directions of Coliseum security.

PRESS ROOM

Located on the east end of the lower Coliseum concourse. The facilities of the SUNS Press Room are open to members of the working media only, 1½ hours prior to tip-off, during the halftime intermission and for post-game work. Telephones, electrical outlets and a work area are provided here for post-game work since courtside press tables are removed immediately following each game.

SERVICES

Complete statistics will be furnished including pre-game notes, lineups, game summary and period breakdowns. Information regarding injuries and other pertinent facts will be furnished by the Suns Public Relations Department. Locker room quotes will be provided for those writers unable to visit the coaches because of filing deadlines. Telecopier service is available in the Press Room.

RADIO AND TELEVISION

Electronic media representing the visiting team will be assigned to the west end of the press table, near the visiting bench. Call-letter banners cannot be placed in front of the press table.

If notified in advance, the Suns publicity department will assist in arranging halftime and post-game interviews. The interviews can be arranged for pre-game taping or live broadcast at the announcer's discretion.
